

WHAT IS DENIM DAY?

In 1999, the Italian Supreme Court overturned a rape conviction in which a man raped a young woman

The man walked free from jail because the court ruled that because the woman was wearing tight jeans at the time of the assault, there must have been consent, but clothes are not consent

In an act of solidarity with the survivor, female lawmakers wore jeans to work in protest the next day

Denim Day is now marked every year on 30th April by wearing denim to show support for survivors and call for change

Thank you Year 12 for choosing to support Jersey Action Against Rape on International Denim Day
